Incident Details:	I am writing this letter to bring to your notice a serious issue that has been affecting the genuine candidates who aspire for government jobs. The selling of exam papers to candidates by The Officers/employee of Arunachal Pradesh Public Service Commission (APPSC) has become a common practice in state of Arunachal Pradesh. This illegal and unethical act not only undermines the credibility of the recruitment process but also violates the human rights of genuine candidates. This malpractice has several adverse effects on deserving candidates who have worked hard to secure a job in the government sector. Firstly, it deprives them of their right to fair competition and equal opportunity. While they prepare for the exams with utmost sincerity and dedication, other candidates who have access to the leaked papers gain an unfair advantage over them. It is a clear violation of Article 14 of the Constitution of India, which guarantees equality before the law and equal protection of the law to all citizens. Moreover, the selling of exam papers also leads to a decline in the quality of the workforce. When incompetent candidates are recruited based on their access to leaked papers, it negatively impacts the functioning of various government departments. It hampers the efficient and effective delivery of services to the citizens of our country. This is a violation of the human rights of the citizens, as they have a right to receive quality services from the government. Moreover, it also has a negative impact on the morale of deserving candidates. It is disheartening for them to see that their hard work and dedication are not being rewarded fairly. This can lead to demotivation and a loss of confidence in the system. In light of the above, I strongly urge the National Human Rights Commission to take action against this illegal practice. The authorities should conduct rigorous investigations to identify and punish the culprits involved in selling exam papers. Measures should also be taken to ensure the confidentiality of the question papers and prevent their leakage. Only through these actions can we guarantee a fair and transparent recruitment process and protect the human rights of the genuine candidates. And lastly, Hon'ble Commission is prayed to direct Government of Arunachal Pradesh to provide monetary compensation to all the deprived candidates as a partial solution to this problem. While it may provide some redressal to the affected candidates, it does not address the root cause of the issue.
